Market commentary

Global equity markets continued in an upward direction, adding 2.17% in US dollar terms. Leading the way were Developed Markets, returning 2.54%, although Emerging Markets gave back some of their recent gains, ending the month 0.33% down. Global bonds returned 0.75% for the month.

Investors anticipate further stimulus from China, as Chinese CPI dipped to 1.80% and concerns around growth escalate. EU and UK CPI remain sticky above their inflation target of 2%, while the US saw an unexpected drop in CPI to 1.40%. Unemployment in the US unexpectedly rose to 8.30%, although non-farm payroll numbers improved more than expected, adding 163,000 jobs in the month.

The FED was largely expected to announce QE3 at its Jackson Hole meeting on 31 August. Although further easing was not explicitly announced, markets took comfort on comments from Bernanke that the Fed was prepared to take further stimulus action if necessary.

The EU dipped into recession in the second quarter, falling 0.40% year-on-year, in line with consensus. Although global reserve banks kept interest rates on hold this month, there is widespread anticipation that the ECB will resume its easing policy when they meet on 6 September, possibly cutting rates by another 0.25%.

The US dollar gave back some of its safe-haven gains to the euro as investors clung to hopes of further stimulus by governments globally.

Markets remain in vulnerable territory and it is becoming increasingly difficult to find solid value. Equity still appears the best valued asset class at this time, and we therefore remain slightly overweight. Fixed interest is materially overvalued and we maintain an underweight position here. We believe that assuming a more active investment approach, particularly in the area of stock selection, will assist in adding value in these uncertain times.

■ Risk warnings and important notes

Collective investments are generally medium to long term investments. The value of units may go down as well as up, and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future.

Collective investments are traded at ruling prices. Commission and incentives may be paid and, if so, would be included in the overall costs. All performance is calculated Total Return, Net of all fees and commissions and in US Dollar terms. Weekly Forward pricing is used.

A fund of fund collective investment scheme only invests in other collective investments, which levy their own charges.

Fluctuations in the value of the underlying funds and the income from them and changes in interest rates mean that the value of the Fund and any income arising from it may fall, as well as rise, and is not guaranteed.

Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.

The fees charged within the Fund and by the managers of the underlying funds are not guaranteed and may change in the future.

Higher risk investments may be subject to sudden and large falls in value in comparison to other investments. Higher risk investments include, but are not limited to, investments in smaller companies, even in developed markets, investments in emerging markets or single country debt or equity funds and investments in high yield or non-investment grade debt.

Notwithstanding ongoing monitoring of the underlying funds within the Fund, there can be no assurance that the performance of the Fund will achieve its stated objectives.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that invest internationally. The value of your investment and the income arising from it may therefore be subject to exchange rate fluctuations.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that do not permit dealing every day. Investments in such funds will only be realisable on their dealing days. It is not possible to assess the proper market price of these investments other than on the fund's dealing days.

Certain unregulated Collective Investment Schemes may permit a greater degree of leverage than is permitted with investment funds that are available to the general public in South Africa. Such Collective Investment Schemes have a greater underlying volatility, which increases the risk of loss.

Investment in the Fund may not be suitable for all investors. Investors should obtain advice from their financial adviser before proceeding with an investment.
