Market commentary

Policy actions by Central Banks across the world supported risk market sentiment this month and global equity markets advanced further, adding 3.15% in US dollar terms. Leading the way were Emerging Markets, returning 6.03% while Developed equities and Global bonds posted returns of 2.75% and 1.25% respectively.

The EU, Japan and US saw GDP growth ebbing to -0.50%, 0.70% and 1.30% respectively as global woes continue. In an attempt to revive growth, Central Banks stepped up their fiscal stimulus: the ECB pledged to purchase short-term peripheral debt on an unlimited scale; the Fed, which has been on the precipice of launching QE3, finally made the announcement to purchase $40bn of mortgage-backed securities per month, as well as continuing Operation Twist until the end of 2012 and maintaining historically low interest rates until mid-2015; Japan extended their asset purchase programme by $126bn to $1tn; the PBoC injected approximately $58bn into money markets and Korea followed suit, unveiling a $5.2bn fiscal stimulus as well.

Despite the positive stimulus impact, the underlying economic fundamentals have not changed materially. In particular, US unemployment remains high and the US housing recovery is still lagging. China has seen a material downturn in trade activity and the issues in Europe, including Spain's potential bailout, are yet to be resolved.

We perceive the current environment as uncharted and uncertain territory and thus remain cautious in our approach at this time. Equity still appears the best valued asset class at this time, and we therefore remain marginally overweight. Fixed interest is materially overvalued and we maintain an underweight position here. We believe that assuming a more active investment approach, particularly in the area of stock selection, will assist in adding value in these uncertain times.

■ Risk warnings and important notes

Collective investments are generally medium to long term investments. The value of units may go down as well as up, and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future.

Collective investments are traded at ruling prices. Commission and incentives may be paid and, if so, would be included in the overall costs. All performance is calculated Total Return, Net of all fees and commissions and in US Dollar terms. Weekly Forward pricing is used.

A fund of fund collective investment scheme only invests in other collective investments, which levy their own charges.

Fluctuations in the value of the underlying funds and the income from them and changes in interest rates mean that the value of the Fund and any income arising from it may fall, as well as rise, and is not guaranteed.

Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.

The fees charged within the Fund and by the managers of the underlying funds are not guaranteed and may change in the future.

Higher risk investments may be subject to sudden and large falls in value in comparison to other investments. Higher risk investments include, but are not limited to, investments in smaller companies, even in developed markets, investments in emerging markets or single country debt or equity funds and investments in high yield or non-investment grade debt.

Notwithstanding ongoing monitoring of the underlying funds within the Fund, there can be no assurance that the performance of the Fund will achieve its stated objectives.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that invest internationally. The value of your investment and the income arising from it may therefore be subject to exchange rate fluctuations.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that do not permit dealing every day. Investments in such funds will only be realisable on their dealing days. It is not possible to assess the proper market price of these investments other than on the fund's dealing days.

Certain unregulated Collective Investment Schemes may permit a greater degree of leverage than is permitted with investment funds that are available to the general public in South Africa. Such Collective Investment Schemes have a greater underlying volatility, which increases the risk of loss.

Investment in the Fund may not be suitable for all investors. Investors should obtain advice from their financial adviser before proceeding with an investment.

This Report should be read in conjunction with the Prospectus of Momentum Mutual Fund ICC Limited and the Fund Supplement, in which all the current fees and expenses charged to the Fund are disclosed.
