■ Market commentary

Despite a number of risks on the horizon – including the stand-off between Madrid and Catalonia, the choice of a new Federal Reserve chair and ongoing Brexit talks – global stock markets edged up throughout the month, ending October 2.1% higher. Developed markets rose 1.9%, led by Japan and the US, while emerging markets added 3.5%.

The Japanese Topix Index gained 5.4% (4.5% in US dollar terms) following Prime Minister Shinzo Abe's emphatic election win, which signals a continuation of ultra-accommodative monetary policy and further progress on constitutional and economic reform.

In the US, equities were buoyed by the US Senate's approval of a $4 trillion budget measure, which makes provision for a tax bill. This progress on potential tax reforms helped lift the S&P 500 Index by 2.3%. The hurricane-related fall in US employment growth in September rebounded in October. US firms are finding it more and more difficult to fill positions and although wages have been slow to accelerate, the ongoing strengthening of the labour market is expected to sustain higher wage growth and stabilise inflation around the US Federal Reserve's target of 2% in upcoming quarters.

European stocks were more muted during the first three weeks of the month as investors reacted to the negative news in Catalonia. The announcement by the ECB that it would be buying bonds at a rate of €45 billion per month in the first nine months of 2018 boosted markets however. Surveyed sentiment continues to paint a positive growth picture in the Eurozone, with the composite Purchasing Managers' Index (measuring sentiment in the services and manufacturing sectors) continuing to sit above 55. The ECB raised its Eurozone growth forecast to 2.2% at its last meeting while at the same time emphasising that interest rates are likely to "remain at their present levels for an extended period of time".

Across the Channel, the UK's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) reacted to rising inflation pressures by raising interest rates immediately following the end of the month. Balancing inflation with a fragile growth outlook represents a challenge for UK policymakers.

Elsewhere in markets, US Treasuries slipped 0.1% over the month. Returns on UK Gilts (+0.3%) and Euro Government Bonds (+1.1%) were both positive in local currency terms, but overall global bonds were negative in dollar terms after the US dollar strengthened by 1.8% on a trade weighted basis. Global property securities were weak and have been relatively muted year to date. Finally gold slipped 0.7% over the month (while still up over 10% year to date), while oil was the big mover, adding +6.7%.

■ Risk warnings and important notes

Investment in the Fund may not be suitable for all investors and financial advice should be sought before proceeding with an investment. Past performance is not indicative of future returns and there can be no assurance that the performance of the Fund will achieve its stated objective. All performance is calculated on a total returns basis, net of all fees and commissions and in US Dollar terms. Daily forward pricing is used for this Fund.

Collective investments are generally medium to long term investments and are traded at ruling prices. The value of the Fund and any income arising from it are not guaranteed and may fall, as well as rise, due to the value of its holdings, the income derived from them, and changes in interest rates. The Fund will hold shares or units in underlying funds which invest internationally, which will be exposed to exchange rate fluctuations, and may erode any potential gains.

Higher risk investments, such as small companies (even in developed markets), emerging markets, single country debt, equity funds, high yield and sub-investment grade debt may be more prone to sudden and larger falls in value in comparison to other investments. Unregulated funds may permit a greater degree of leverage than is permitted with regulated funds that are available to the general public in South Africa, which increases volatility and the risk of larger losses should the fund's value decrease.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that do not permit dealing every day. It is not possible to immediately assess the proper market price of these investments, as they will only be realisable on their dealing days.

A fund of fund collective investment scheme only invests in other collective investments, which levy their own charges. The fees charged within the Fund and by the managers of the underlying funds are not guaranteed and are subject to change thereby impacting the Fund's performance. Commissions and incentives may be paid and, if so, would be included in the overall costs. Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.
