

VPFP International Growth Fund

Investment Objectives

The Cell focuses primarily on long-term capital growth over the full investment cycle through a relatively high exposure to international growth assets. The portfolio will retain a good level of diversification, however, and will invest into a wide range of asset classes including cash, bonds, equities, and property. The Cell is ideally suited to investors with an investment horizon of 5 years and longer and an intermediate (between moderate and high) risk tolerance.

Market Commentary

Emerging Markets failed to maintain their upward trend and declined 2.7% in the first month of 2011. Nevertheless the MSCI AC World Index was held up by Developed Markets which extended gains by 2.3%, thereby returning 1.6%. The JP Morgan Global Bond Index ended the month flat.

Inflation worldwide is on the rise with major economies like Europe, China and the UK now reporting CPI above the respective target bands in place.

In the US, unemployment declined favorably to 9.4% but remains the largest risk to an economic recovery along with housing activity which is struggling to gain adequate ground. As a result the Federal Reserve kept rates on hold and maintains its expansionary monetary policy.

The US dollar continues to weaken against the euro on expectations that the Euro Zone may tighten monetary policy before the US. Emerging markets have reversed their gains to the US dollar as investors ease investment into these markets on hopes for a developed world recovery.

While inflation in China fell, it remains well above the target range set by the PBOC, who subsequently raised the reserve requirement ratio by another 50bps, to 19.5%, following six such increases in 2010. Chinese GDP rose unexpectedly by 9.8% in Q4, locking in China's position as the second largest economy in the world.

We maintain our view that offshore equities offer the greatest value and upside potential at present. We anticipate positioning the portfolios for a higher inflationary environment.

Risk Warnings

- Collective investments are generally medium to long term investments. The value of units may go down as well as up, and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future.
- Collective investments are traded at ruling prices. Commission and incentives may be paid and, if so, would be included in the overall costs. All performance is calculated Total Return, Net of all fees and commissions and in US Dollar terms. Weekly Forward pricing is used.
- A fund of fund collective investment scheme only invests in other collective investments, which levy their own charges.
- Fluctuations in the value of the underlying funds and the income from them and changes in interest rates mean that the value of the Fund and any income arising from it may fall, as well as rise, and is not guaranteed.
- Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.
- The fees charged within the Fund and by the managers of the underlying funds are not guaranteed and may change in the future.
- Higher risk investments may be subject to sudden and large falls in value in comparison to other investments. Higher risk investments include, but are not limited to, investments in smaller companies, even in developed markets, investments in emerging markets or single country debt or equity funds and investments in high yield or non-investment grade debt.
- Notwithstanding ongoing monitoring of the underlying funds within the Fund, there can be no assurance that the performance of the Fund will achieve its stated objectives.
- The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that invest internationally. The value of your investment and the income arising from it may therefore be subject to exchange rate fluctuations.
- The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that do not permit dealing every day. Investments in such funds will only be realisable on their dealing days. It is not possible to assess the proper market price of these investments other than on the fund's dealing days.
- Certain unregulated Collective Investment Schemes may permit a greater degree of leverage than is permitted with investment funds that are available to the general public in South Africa. Such Collective Investment Schemes have a greater underlying volatility, which increases the risk of loss.
- Investment in the Fund may not be suitable for all investors. Investors should obtain advice from their financial adviser before proceeding with an investment.
