Investment objective

The cell focuses primarily on long-term capital growth over the full investment cycle through a relatively high exposure to international growth assets. The portfolio will retain a good level of diversification, however, and will invest in a wide range of asset classes including cash, bonds, equities and property. The Cell is ideally suited to investors with an investment horizon of 5 years or longer and an intermediate (between moderate and high) risk tolerance.

■ Market commentary

Global equity markets rebounded in February, led by Developed Markets. The MSCI AC World Index gained 5.6% in US dollar terms. Developed Markets added 5.9% and Emerging Markets added 3.1% in US dollar terms. The US S&P 500 Index shot up by 5.5%, reaching a new record high, while the MSCI World Index also hit a new record high. MSCI Russia had the best gain in February, +22.8% in US dollars. Global bonds withdrew -1.3% in US dollar terms.

US inflation turned negative in January (-0.1% year-on-year), the lowest rate since late 2009, as households continued to cut back on purchases and gasoline prices declined. Core inflation (excluding food and energy) rose by a more than expected +1.6% year-on-year in January.

Federal Reserve Chair, Janet Yellen, has recently indicated that the US Federal Reserve (Fed) will exercise caution as the jobs picture improves but inflation remains muted. The Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) considers it unlikely that economic conditions will warrant an increase in the target range for the federal funds rate for at least the next couple of FOMC meetings. The Fed first needs to be reasonably confident that inflation will move back toward their 2% target. The possibility of deflation remains a concern.

The US labour market recorded another solid escalation in January, with the private sector adding 267,000 jobs and non-farm payrolls adding 257,000 jobs. Encouragingly, the labour market participation rate rose to 62.9% in January. The US has created over 11 million jobs since the financial crisis ended.

EU inflation fell further into deflationary territory in January (-0.6% year-on-year), driven mainly by the fall in energy prices.

The People's Bank of China (PBOC) surprised markets with an unexpected 25bps cut in interest rates (lending and deposit rates) at the end of February, in an attempt to address the slowing economy.

Gold and platinum lost approximately 6% in US dollars in February, while Brent oil shot up by approximately 30%.

We remain cautiously optimistic but well diversified as downside risks to performance remain a growing concern. We have introduced global property to the portfolios as an additional diversifier and a yield-enhancing alternative to fixed income instruments.

■ Risk warnings and important notes

Investment in the Fund may not be suitable for all investors and financial advice should be sought before proceeding with an investment. Past performance is not indicative of future returns and there can be no assurance that the performance of the Fund will achieve its stated objective. All performance is calculated on a total returns basis, net of all fees and commissions and in US Dollar terms. Daily forward pricing is used for this Fund.

Collective investments are generally medium to long term investments and are traded at ruling prices. The value of the Fund and any income arising from it are not guaranteed and may fall, as well as rise, due to the value of its holdings, the income derived from them, and changes in interest rates. The Fund may hold shares or units in underlying funds which invest internationally, which will be exposed to exchange rate fluctuations, and may erode any potential gains.

Higher risk investments, such as small companies (even in developed markets), emerging markets, single country debt, equity funds, high yield and sub-investment grade debt may be more prone to sudden and larger falls in value in comparison to other investments. Unregulated funds may permit a greater degree of leverage than is permitted with regulated funds that are available to the general public in South Africa, which increases volatility and the risk of larger losses should the fund's value decrease.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that do not permit dealing every day. It is not possible to immediately assess the proper market price of these investments, as they will only be realisable on their dealing days.

A fund of fund collective investment scheme only invests in other collective investments, which levy their own charges. The fees charged within the Fund and by the managers of the underlying funds are not guaranteed and are subject to change thereby impacting the Fund's performance. Commissions and incentives may be paid and, if so, would be included in the overall costs. Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.
