Investment objective

The Fund focuses primarily on long-term capital growth over the full investment cycle through a relatively high exposure to international growth assets. The portfolio will retain a good level of diversification, however, and will invest into a wide range of asset classes including cash, bonds, equities, commodities and property. The Fund is ideally suited to investors with an investment horizon of 5 years and longer and an intermediate (between moderate and high) risk tolerance.

^ With effect from 01.07.18 the 30% allocation in the FTSE WGBI index was replaced with the ICE BofA Global Government index. Both indices have had similar returns since the inception of the Fund and this change, which has not been applied retrospectively, has no significant impact on the performance comparison.

The Fund performance is calculated on a total return basis, net of all fees and in US dollar terms. NAV to NAV figures have been used for the performance calculations. The performance is calculated for the Fund. The individual investor performance may differ, as a result of various factors, including the actual investment date. Investment performance calculations are available for verification upon request. Annualised returns are period returns re-scaled to a period of 1 year. This allows investors to compare returns of different assets that they have owned for different lengths of time. Actual annual figures are available to investors upon request. Since inception figures are since the inception of the investment strategy.

* Please refer to the fund supplement and scheme particulars for a detailed description of fees and fund facts.

 The Total Expense Ratios (TERs) are the percentages of the net asset value of the class of the Financial Product incurred as expenses relating to the administration of the Financial Product. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. A current TER may not necessarily be an accurate indication of future TERs. The TER to 31 December 2019 is based on data for the period from 31 December 2018 to 31 December 2019 and the financial year-end TER is based on data for the financial year-end to 28 June 2019. Cost ratios are calculated using historical actual and/or estimated data and are provided solely as an indication/guide as to the annual expenses/costs that could be incurred. These ratios do not represent any current/actual charges or fees.

 Asset allocation figures look through to the holdings of underlying collective investment schemes.

Market commentary

Three months ago, investors were looking forward to an improved year of global growth and corporate earnings. That was then. The coronavirus crisis is an era defining event; life before coronavirus and life afterwards. Above all it is a humanitarian crisis on an epic scale, the speed of its destruction amply illustrated by its spread: on February 29th there were 85,000 confirmed cases across 58 countries, with 2,924 deaths; by 6th April there were 1.25m cases and over 69,000 deaths as the pandemic reached 207 countries. It has delivered an economic shock with a speed and severity unprecedented in modern times.

Leading indicators published in March are at all-time lows and early estimates suggest that the sudden combined supply-demand shock will cut GDP by 20-40% annualised in the lockdown period, much higher than anything experienced in living memory. Perhaps the most stunning news on the state of the economy came from the US, where in just two weeks initial jobless claims rose a staggering 10m, which amounts to almost 7% of all non-farm jobs in the US.

The speed and depth of the downturn, in the economy and markets, triggered a major credit and liquidity event in March; severe dollar shortages emerged and cash became king as panic selling and frantic deleveraging pushed markets into free-fall. It was only when the Federal Reserve stepped in with a massive support package that the risk of a downward spiral was averted.

The scale of the damage to markets is well illustrated by the S&P 500, which fell by 34% (local currency returns) between its all-time peak on 19th February and 23rd March, when the Fed stepped in. Despite the subsequent rally, the S&P still finished the month down 12.4% and the quarter down 19.7%. Few asset classes were spared in March, with credit spreads blowing out to their highest level since the financial crisis.

Looking beyond the short term, we expect a short, sharp burst to life in the global economy as the virus risk is contained, then a protracted period of slow growth and rebuilding. With zero interest rates and low inflation, that is likely to be a reasonable period for risk assets. By staying invested, we believe we are positioned to weather any further storm ahead and participate fully in the upswing in markets when it arrives.

Risk warnings and important notes

Collective investments are generally medium to long-term investments. The value of units may go down as well as up and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future.

Collective investments are traded at ruling prices. Commission and incentives may be paid and, if so, would be included in the overall costs. All performance is calculated on a total return basis, after deduction of all fees and commissions and in US dollar terms. Forward pricing is used.

The Fund invests in other collective investments, which levy their own charges. This could result in a higher fee structure for the Fund.

Fluctuations in the value of the underlying funds, the income from them and changes in interest rates mean that the value of the Fund and any income arising from it may fall, as well as rise, and is not guaranteed.

Deductions of charges and expenses mean that you may not get back the amount you invested.

The fees charged within the Fund and by the managers of the underlying funds are not guaranteed and may change in the future.

Higher risk investments may be subject to sudden and larger falls in value in comparison to other investments. Higher risk investments include, but are not limited to, investments in smaller companies, even in developed markets, investments in emerging markets or single country debt or equity funds and investments in high yield or non-investment grade debt.

Notwithstanding ongoing monitoring of the underlying funds within the Fund, there can be no assurance that the performance of the funds will achieve their stated objectives.

The Fund will contain shares or units in underlying funds that invest internationally. The value of an investor's investment and the income arising from it will therefore be subject to exchange rate fluctuations.

Foreign securities may have additional material risks, depending on the specific risks affecting that country, such as: potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds; macroeconomic risks; political risks; foreign exchange risks; tax risks; settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information.

The Fund may contain shares or units in underlying funds that do not permit dealing every day. Investments in such funds will only be realisable on their dealing days. It is not possible to assess the proper market price of these investments other than on the fund's dealing days.

No borrowing will be undertaken by the Fund except for the purpose of meeting short term liquidity requirements. Borrowings will not exceed 10% of the net asset value of the Fund. For such purpose, the securities of the Fund may be pledged. No scrip borrowing will be allowed. The Cell is not permitted to enter into any form of borrowing or loan arrangement with other cells of the Company nor other collective investment schemes of the Manager.

While derivative instruments may be used for hedging purposes, the risk remains that the relevant instrument may not necessarily fully correlate to the investments in the Fund and accordingly not fully reflect changes in the value of the investment, giving rise to potential net losses.

Forward contracts are neither traded on exchanges nor standardised. Principals dealing in these markets are also not required to make markets in the currencies they trade, with the result that these markets may experience periods of illiquidity. Banks and dealers will normally act as principals and usually each transaction is negotiated on an individual basis.

The Manager has the right to close the Fund to new investors, in order to manage it more efficiently, in accordance with its mandate.

Investment in the Fund may not be suitable for all investors. Investors should obtain advice from their financial adviser before proceeding with an investment.

Investors are reminded that any forecasts and/or commentary included in this MDD are not guaranteed to occur, and merely reflect the interpretation of the public information and propriety research available to the Investment Manager at a particular point in time.
