The fund is permitted to invest in foreign securities which, within portfolios, may have additional material risks, depending on the specific risks affecting that country, such as: potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds; macroeconomic risks; political risks; foreign exchange risks; tax risks; settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying international investments to go up or down. Investors are reminded that an investment in a currency other than their own may expose them to a foreign exchange risk.

Monthly Comment

Although global markets were positive in USD terms in April, the strength of the Rand resulted in losses in Rand terms. The MSCI AC World Index declined -2.2% while global bonds lost -2.4% in Rand terms.

The SA Rand is now one of the best performing emerging market currencies in 2016 along with the Russian Ruble and the Brazilian Real. The Rand has strengthened by 8.5% against the US Dollar since the beginning of 2016 after a decline of 25.4% against the Dollar in 2015. Recent emerging market currency strength has resulted from a combination of factors including improved Chinese economic data, a more dovish tone from the US Federal Reserve and the extension of quantitative easing in the Euro-area along with the European Central Bank's decision to introduce a negative deposit rate. Many of the emerging market currencies (including the Rand) have been regarded as being significantly undervalued.

The International Monetary Fund revised down their world growth outlook for 2016 and 2017, once again. Most regions, including Sub-Saharan Africa, were revised lower. China was one key exception, which had their growth forecast revised up.

SA consumer inflation eased to 6.3%/y/y in March down from 7.0%/y/y in February (slightly lower than market expectations for a rise of 6.4%/y/y), helped by base effects. Food inflation continued to increase and is almost at 10%/y/y, while tertiary education inflation is now down at 0%/y/y.

The JSE All Share Total Return Index added 1.7% for the month. Resources saw material gains of 13.5% while Industrials rose 2.0% and Financials lost -0.3%. SA Listed Property gained 2.0% and local bonds rose 1.9%.

We remain cautiously optimistic about the portfolios. There may be a lot of "noise" and uncertainty out there but we believe in our philosophy and in remaining committed to it, we have seen that the portfolios are able to withstand uncertainty. We urge investors to remain patient and committed to their chosen investment strategy.

A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. A current TER may not necessarily be an accurate indication of future TER's. The disclosed TER is shown as an annual percentage based on data for the period from 01 January 2013 to 31 December 2015. The disclosed TC is shown as an annual percentage based on data for the period from 01 January 2013 to 31 December 2015. The Total Investment Charges (TIC), the TER + the TC, is the percentage of the net asset value of the class of the Financial Product incurred as costs relating to the investment of the Financial Product. It should be noted that a TIC is the sum of two calculated ratios (TER+TC). The TER and TC have been calculated using historical actual and/or estimated data and are provided solely as an indication/guide as to the annual expenses/costs that could be incurred. These ratios do not represent any current/actual charges or fees.

Performance is calculated for a portfolio/portfolio class. Annualised returns, also known as Compound Annualised Growth Rates (CAGR), are calculated from cumulative returns; they provide an indication of the average annual return achieved from an investment that was held for the stated time period. Actual annual figures are available from the Manager on request. Performance figures quoted are from Morningstar, as at 30/04/2016, for a lump sum investment, using NAV-NAV prices with income distributions reinvested on the ex-dividend date.
