Specific risks

The fund is a pure equity fund with a growth objective, suitable for long term investors with a high risk tolerance seeking correlation with local listed property. It is permitted to invest in foreign securities which, within portfolios, may have additional material risks, depending on the specific risks affecting that country, such as: potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds; macroeconomic risks; political risks; foreign exchange risks; tax risks; settlement risks; and potential limitations on the availability of market information. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying international investments to go up or down. Investors are reminded that an investment in a currency other than their own may expose them to a foreign exchange risk.

Monthly Comment

Although global markets were positive in USD terms in April, the strength of the Rand resulted in losses in Rand terms. The MSCI AC World Index declined -2.2% while global bonds lost -2.4% in Rand terms.

The SA Rand is now one of the best performing emerging market currencies in 2016 along with the Russian Ruble and the Brazilian Real. The Rand has strengthened by 8.5% against the US Dollar since the beginning of 2016 after a decline of 25.4% against the Dollar in 2015. Recent emerging market currency strength has resulted from a combination of factors including improved Chinese economic data, a more dovish tone from the US Federal Reserve and the extension of quantitative easing in the Euro-area along with the European Central Bank's decision to introduce a negative deposit rate. Many of the emerging market currencies (including the Rand) have been regarded as being significantly undervalued.

The International Monetary Fund revised down their world growth outlook for 2016 and 2017, once again. Most regions, including Sub-Saharan Africa, were revised lower. China was one key exception, which had their growth forecast revised up.

SA consumer inflation eased to 6.3%/y/y in March down from 7.0%/y/y in February (slightly lower than market expectations for a rise of 6.4%/y/y), helped by base effects. Food inflation continued to increase and is almost at 10%/y/y, while tertiary education inflation is now down at 0%/y/y.

SA Listed Property experienced gains of around 2% for the month of April.

We remain cautiously optimistic about the portfolio. There may be a lot of "noise" and uncertainty out there but we believe in our philosophy and in remaining committed to it, we have seen that the portfolios are able to withstand uncertainty. We urge investors to remain patient and committed to their chosen investment strategy.
